Getting started

Simple steps to get your box up and running

Check what's in the box

You should have everything you need to get started right out of the box.

Check the connections

Connect to your outdoor aerial feed, indoor aerials also work but signal strength may vary. Ensure everything is connected properly before switching the power on. Be sure to change the input on your TV so it's set to this set top box.

1. Aerial Connect RF IN to your aerial antenna feed 2. HDMI Connect to a HDMI port on your TV

3. Internet Ethernet cable or via WiFi later in settings 4. USB Ports Plug in your external devices 5. Power Plug in to your socket

Getting to know your remote

Designed for you to get things done quicker

*Please refer to the manual available online for further details.

Remote Control Setup

Pairing your remote via Bluetooth for the first time

Pairing your remote via Bluetooth

Enable Google Assistant and other smart functions by pairing your remote during the initial set up process.

Pairing Universal Remote Controls

Your remote control is compatible with many other popular TV's, which requires slightly more detail to explain.*

Re-pairing or disabling Bluetooth

Pressing the (a) and (i) buttons at the same time for 5 seconds will switch Bluetooth off. Note: IR mode will remain on.

Replacing batteries

If batteries are low, the red LED will blink twice every time you press the Freeview Play Home button. It's good to replace both at the same time.

*Please refer to the manual available online for further details.

Onscreen Setup

Follow the setup instructions using your remote or smart device

Using your mobile or PC

Sync your Google Account from your mobile device or PC. Ensure you're connected to the same network. (Android & iOS compatible)

Channel Search

Usually takes 2-3 minutes for the scan to complete. Ensure your aerial is connected properly. You can re-scan later if needed.

Using your remote control

Follow the step-by-step instructions on screen using your remote control.
